

What is M:Tech?

M:Tech is a music and media technology programme exclusive to independent schools and is suitable for children of all levels of musical ability.

M:Tech classes give children a unique opportunity to enhance creativity and individual expression, enabling them to make exciting music through a series of fun and engaging projects. Incredibly empowering for children, this wonderful addition to traditional music captures their imagination and energy, allowing an opportunity to fully express their creative potential.

In the same way that word processing software has made writing easier, music sequencing software has made musical composition accessible to everybody. Using computers, music technology makes it possible to compose in a way previously unimaginable, through the use of sampled instruments from the piano through to the didgeridoo and everything in between!

To see for yourself what M:Tech is all about and why children are so excited about it, please take a moment to visit our website and see a short video of today's demonstration:
